ABOUT THE 3rd AIWW

The Asia International Water Week (AIWW), initiated by the Asia Water Council (AWC) in 2017, punctuates the international calendar in three years as Asia's most influential gathering of water-related multi-stakeholders. Its inaugural and second editions took place in Korea and Indonesia, respectively. The 3rd AIWW, which will take place from September 23 to 28, 2024, in Beijing, is co-hosted by the Ministry of Water Resources (MWR) of the People's Republic of China and AWC. The lead-organizer is the China Institute of Water Resources and Hydropower Research (IWHR).

EXHIBITION LAYOUT

The 3rd AIWW exhibition is set to be one of the highlights and will distinguish itself as a practical platform to enable cooperation and business across borders. We sincerely welcome all water players—industry, institutions, universities, associations and societies—to connect and build networks, as well as to present their actions and solutions in establishing sustainable water management. The exhibition offers a medium to showcase the latest advancements, products, and services and provides an excellent opportunity for participants to gain insights, establish valuable connections, and stay abreast of the latest trends in the water sector.

The exhibition area includes Hall A, Hall B and part of the public area of the first-floor lobby, covering a total area of 3,500 square meters. The specific layout of the exhibition booths is shown below. Hall A houses 10 large-sized and specially-decorated Special Booths that are reserved by representatives of institute members of AWC and major supporting organizations of the 3rd AIWW. Hall B includes 26 Standard Booths with fixed area of 18 square meters, which are open to public application; in addition, 31 small-sized Discount Booths in the public area of the first-floor lobby are also available for public application.
